

Our World-Class Streams:

A Workshop for Citizens of the Laurel Highlands

You are invited to learn about the world-class quality of streams in our backyards and how to protect them. Some local streams are so richly diverse that they could qualify as World Heritage Sites or as National Natural Landmarks.

Oct. 15, 2014

Saint Francis University

DiSepio Institute for Rural Health & Wellness

Seminar Room 201

6 p.m. networking with pizza
7 to 9 p.m. workshop

Workshop Speakers:

- Dr. Walter, biology professor, St. Vincent College, why area streams could be World Heritage Sites.
- Dr. Gail Drus, biology professor, St. Francis College, how plant diversity impacts streams.
- Robb Piper, Cambria County Conservation District and Stonycreek-Conemaugh River Improvement Project, local issues.
- Andrew Heath, Pennsylvania Growing Greener Coalition, “Finding the Green,” funding opportunities for conservation and recreation

Similar workshops will be held Oct. 22 at Saint Vincent College in Latrobe and Oct. 29 at Lamonica’s Restaurant, Jennerstown.

RESERVATIONS REQUESTED! To RSVP or if you have questions:

Brad Clemenson: bclemenson@pecpa.org; 814.659.3465
Laurel Highlands Conservation Coalition

